Online Personal Development & Leadership Education Business

Independent online business focusing on marketing - promoting personal development and leadership education programs, including high-ticket online courses and live events, to an international market.

Operating through an established digital business system, develop skills in digital marketing, leadership, communication and customer support. Training, recorded resources and mentorship support your development.

The role also involves growing, mentoring, leading and supporting a team, sharing knowledge and helping others develop their own business skills.

The model offers location flexibility, allowing you to work from home or while travelling, to develop your business full or part or time.

Suits motivated, entrepreneurial people ready to learn new skills, develop leadership and support others in their growth, while exploring a different way of working.
