Advanced Engineering Business of the Future

This World leader cutting-edge engineering business is redefining advanced manufacturing on a global scale. With world-class technology and expertise, it delivers precision-engineered solutions to highly specialised industries globally, offering an agile and collaborative manufacturing service to several key industries. They lead the world in capability and are deemed a critical supplier to some of their key clients.

Backed by a team of elite professionals with top-tier international training, the business has built an unrivalled reputation over a decade. Its experience in highly regulated industries has cemented a robust technical foundation, enabling it to consistently meet and exceed exacting client specifications.

As industries worldwide embrace Industry 4.0, demand for this company's services is outgrowing their current location, but easy options can be available. To capitalise on growth opportunities, the business is preparing for its next phase of expansion, requiring further investment of circa NZD $2.0 million for setting up the additional premises and purchasing the state-of-the-art equipment to cope with the growth.

If you are a GM who likes to surround yourself with very capable people, you should be talking to us - you don't need to be an Engineer. Otherwise, assistance can be given to assist you to find the right person as your GM.

Given the highly confidential nature of its clients, processes, and products, a strict vetting process will be in place for all interested parties, including proof of funds.
