Leading hot water heating solutions manufacturer

Supplying manufactured product lines and customised solutions to a broad range of industries.

This well respected manufacturer of 30 years supplies hot water cylinders and specialises in customised hot water systems to the dairy and commercial sectors nationally. With valued staff covering technical design production and administration, Superheat will suit an experienced engineering purchaser or an addition to an existing business.

The business has technical designs and established manufacturing processes across a multitude of hot water systems. The size of the premises provides an opportunity to expand manufacturing into other areas.
