Flexibility and Passion for Keen Home Cooks

Flexibility and Passion for Keen Home Cooks

The primarily e-commerce based business is a unique and exciting opportunity. Absolutely no need for formal training; just a passion for home cooking, and if you also have an interest in marketing, you'll be off to a flying start with this brilliant business.

Completely relocatable, the vendor has enjoyed a net profit of between $117,000 and $214,000 for the last 3 years while working only part time in the business. Most of the year, the business requires just 2-14 hours per week from the owner, while during approximately 5 months of the year, the business hours are closer to full-time. The owner's hours could be more evenly distributed across the year, but they choose to travel overseas for 3 months of the year.

This fabulous brand has been built over many years and boasts a large and loyal customer base, backed by a straightforward business model and a Vendor willing to provide an in-depth handover. The incoming owner will be well-positioned for future success.

This business would be perfectly suited for those looking to work around school hours, head into semi-retirement or anyone keen to step back from the demands of a full-time job and make room for that elusive work-life balance.
